

“S&P has rated Marico among the top eight Indian global challengers.”

“Quick, call a management meeting, we need to change everything.”

Most companies are happy sticking to what they do best, just because they're good at it - despite a rapidly changing business environment.

At Marico, we do quite the contrary: success is the first sign to change and do something new.

Whether it's moving our top performers across businesses and functions, to bring in fresh perspectives and thinking. Re-engineering our power brands, Saffola and Parachute, on broader platforms. Foraying into skincare services, just when we've emerged as one of India's fastest growing FMCG companies. Or entering markets dominated by international brands - and cornering them.

By challenging our own success, we're constantly evolving and reinventing ourselves to gear up for further growth - which makes us quick to respond to opportunities in the marketplace.

But naturally, the results we deliver do not go unnoticed.
